

The Moonstar said to her:
“You were also once a star and shone brightly. You have chosen to come into the world, to your parents, to this family, to give them your light.”

“Yes”, said the Moonstar, “your dad did it because he couldn’t help it and felt guilty when you were sad. His anger had nothing to do with you. It wasn’t your fault. He learned that himself from his parents. Your dad loves you very much. You are no longer sad because you felt the sadness and let it out of your heart. And now it is very important that you keep your hands on your heart and keep feeling. It’s getting warmer now. This warmth is love. It is now spreading throughout the body.”

Zoe noticed :

“Yes, thats such a beautiful feeling!”

“And now”, the Moonstar continued, “your face starts to glow, and your eyes are shining. Now you are again that star, this light that you were when you came into the world. You see! You did it yourself, I just reminded you of it!”

How long will you stay here? “, asked Zoe

“I will stay here until all children understand and remember that they were stars and shone brightly. I will stay until all children shine again, just like you. Then it will be so bright that I won’t be needed any more. But because not all people can hear me, it is very important that you tell everyone what I’ve told you.”

The next day Zoe gathered all her courage when the kindergarden teacher asked who wanted to go to the middle of the morning circle to tell something. She told of the Moonstar and asked everyone to put their hands on their chests.
