Former war correspondent turned United Nations Secretariat operative, Den Smil, finds himself thrust into the heart of a chilling conspiracy codenamed 'Polar Bear'. What starts as a mission to mediate a Russian coal mine dispute in Svalbard, soon spirals into a perilous journey to expose a global plot that could reshape the very fabric of the world order. Governments, Business houses and shadowy alliances converge in a dance of intrigue. Den Smil must navigate a treacherous web of deception to unearth the truth.

The story starts with the United Nations climate conference in Katowice, Poland. But the prelude of the conspiracy was planned long back in Svalbard to exploit the Arctic's natural pattern for economic gain. Then the story unfolds in a pursuit of power through a complex spider web. Den Smil will be trapped in Ethiopia but may escape. He has to travel across Greenland & Norway to consolidate the leads and uncover the sinister plot. There is negligible chance that he would discover the root cause and catch the mastermind legitimately. A stranger truth is waiting though. If he can't make it, the Earth and the World power will change forever. The espionage, assassination, malfunctioning and complex business deals shroud the Arctic in uncertainty, as the fate of Earth's economy, rare resources, and crucial trade routes teeter on a precarious edge.

Geopolitics heats up in the icy embrace of the North Pole. As you turn the pages, prepare to be drawn into a gripping narrative filled with unexpected twists, and realize the Arctic Circle emerges as the epicenter of a geopolitical storm.
